A term like “Elements of Literature” might seem kind of imposing. In reality, you were exposed to each and every element of literature before you could even read. Every story you have ever experienced has, in fact, contained all of these elements. You may not have realized it at the time, but something as simple [...]

Homer, or whatever Bard is performing the poem at a given time, functions as a third-person omniscient narrator.

Ontologically speaking, the Bard's facility as a narrator is derived from the divine blessing of the Muses, who speak through him after being invoked at the start of the epic.
